Prologue

This book contains a record of our lives, our hopes, and Heart-felt wishes, aspirations and desires; thus
Ends our college days!

Hath we not turned away
And brushed away a tear,
Caused to flow because we leave our Alma Mater, loved by all, so dear? Those
Walls are ours forever! Be gone, cold thoughts,
And let sweet, tender memories be!

FOREWORD

To Create

An expression and experience worthy of our love for the life and traditions, for the efforts and hopes of our

Alma Mater

Is the purpose that has inspired our efforts in building this volume of

"The Hacawa"

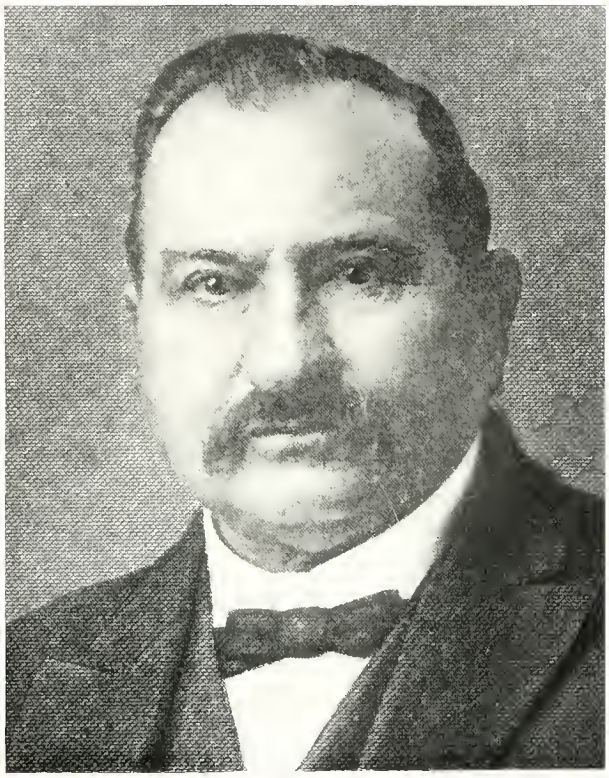

DEDICATION

To

DANIEL EFIRD RHYNE

In appreciation of the generous service rendered our Alma Mater; as a token and expression of our admiration to one who, as a business man, is successful and noteworthy; who as a gentleman is highly esteemed. His tireless efforts and generosity in behalf of Lenoir Rhyne College will ever be remembered by her students and the Class of '28.

Senior Class History

HY, homesick, forlorn, and green—one hundred and twenty-eight freshmen—we entered Lenoir Rhyne College in the fall of 1924. The first few months dragged slowly by, and after we had passed mid-term exams, we began to feel ourselves to be really a part of Lenoir Rhyne.

The first year of our college life was marked by few outstanding deeds on the part of our classmates; we were simply getting our stride.

September, 1925, found us at Lenoir Rhyne once more; this time as sophomores, wise in the ways of the world and the customs of L. R. C. This year we gave Lenoir Rhyne some splendid students, worthy athletes, talent in oratory and debating, notable members of the Glee Club, and good all-round students.

When we enrolled as juniors in 1926, we found our class much smaller. A number of our classmates had decided, by extra work in summer school, to finish their A.B. course in three years. We were sorry to lose them as classmates, but were equally proud of their efforts.

This year marked the first full year of service of our college president. The whole year was marked by progress along all lines. We felt ourselves fortunate to have had at least two years of college under the new administration.

This year of 1927-28 brings to an end our four years at Lenoir Rhyne. While all of our tasks have not been pleasant ones, nor all of our efforts successful, we feel that those are the things that will be forgotten. The pleasures and successes will be our memories of L. R. C. Every member of our class, whether he is leaving a brilliant record behind him or not, is taking away with him a sympathy and friendliness to all men and all good causes, a desire for clean play, and an eagerness to do the part that he or she may be called upon to do.

The four years are over and we are ready to go a step farther into the unknown, but with our present knowledge of books and of life—however great or small—to help us and to guide us on.

M. G. W., Historian.

Class Prophecy

IT WAS in the fall, ten years after our graduation at Lenoir Rhyne College, that I returned to America after several years of study in Europe. I had heard from friends while I was abroad that the Class of '28 was to have a reunion in June at their old Alma Mater. I was very sorry to have to miss it, since I was especially eager to find out what had happened to all my classmates. However, it was impossible for me to return home in June, and I had to miss the class reunion. After landing at New York I decided to drop in and see one of my old college friends, Joyce Rudisill, who was no longer a Rudisill, but the wife of a famous surgeon in New York City. I drove out to her beautiful home on Riverside Drive and was fortunate to find Joyce at home and alone. While we were sitting and having tea in her cozy living room, she told me all about the reunion of the Class of '28 at Lenoir Rhyne College, and recounted to me how Fate had dealt with the different members of the class.

Hugh Beam, she said, was head coach at Notre Dame, and was making a name for himself at that institution.

Perry Crouch and Henry Owl had become famous lawyers. I was not surprised, after considering their ability as speakers at Lenoir Rhyne. "Chief," Joyce told me, "was a candidate for governor of North Carolina in the next election," and from all indications it seemed that he was going to win out.

Pauline Finger had won in a national beauty contest, and was known as "Miss America" for 1937.

Virginia Hanna and Dorothy Robinson were famous musicians, and were appearing together in concerts in New York City.

Kenneth Rhyne had become quite a power in the newspaper world, and was editor-in-chief of one of the leading newspapers of the country.

Fred Phillips and Joe Rudisill were very prosperous farmers in North Carolina. They were both bachelors and lived on adjoining estates.

Mary Miller had become a novelist of national fame. Joyce had one of her latest novels, which she gave me to read.

Roger Plaster was a great physicist. He was making a special study of radium.

Jason Sigmon, Max Sigmon and Walter Sigmon owned a large business house known as "Sigmon's," specializing in ladies' apparel and ready-to-wear.

Irene Setzer was on a tour with the Redpath Chautauqua. She was appearing in a tragedy, and had become quite famous as a tragedienne.

G. N. Smyre was a famous portrait painter. He had several famous portraits in the art galleries of Europe.

Ralph Taylor was radio announcer from station KDKA. He and Fay Carpenter were happily married.

Clarence Cook was owner of a famous hot dog restaurant in Cincinnati.

C. K. Holmes was a well known biologist. He had written several books on this subject.

Russell Eavey was head of a large chain of department stores. He had been disappointed in love and had never married.

Edna Scruggs and Clara Ballew had a manicurist shop in Chicago and were making quite a success of it, since all the big "butter-and-egg" men of the West were there to have their nails manicured.

Thad Lutz had become the superintendent of a children's orphanage.

Mary Monroe had become a powerful figure in the political life of the country. Joyce said that she was a senator from North Carolina, and I decided to stop over in Washington and see her on my way home.

Coline Abee and Louise Booth were stars in Ziegfeld's Follies and were having quite a successful season.

Elizabeth Lingle, known as Madame Zanibinake, was one of the world's greatest clairvoyants.

Jessie Huss, Melbourne Farris, and Glenn Eckard were appearing in a very successful comedy on Broadway. Jessie was the heroine, Mel the villain, and Glenn the hero.

Claude Frick and Claud Hewitt had become owners of the Chevrolet and Ford companies of America, and were turning out bigger and better Chevrolets and Fords than ever before.

Gwendoleine Lindler and Blanche Yoder had an exclusive school for girls.

Paul McRee had become a renowned chef, and was delighting the world with his famous recipes.

Margaret Mauney and Miriam Williams were still chumming together. They had an exclusive shop on Fifth Avenue in New York City. The famous gowns which were exclusively shown at this shop were designed by Edna Norman and Ethel Hoover.

Luther Hodge and Earl Huffman were at the head of the North Carolina Aircraft Corporation. They had become famous for their invention, which made airplane transportation possible for all purposes.

Frank McArver and Fred Yoder were in Hollywood in the movies. Of course they were appearing in "sheik" roles.

Van Hinson was giving a series of lectures on "Fossil Man" at the University of Illinois.

Helen Hentz had taken Dr. Keiser's position at Lenoir Rhyne and was head of the English Department.

After several hours of delightful chatting with Joyce of all our former classmates, and bringing up various reminiscences of our college life, I returned to my hotel feeling that I had once again lived over the happy days spent at Lenoir Rhyne College.

Last Will and Testament

OF THE CLASS OF 1928

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
COUNTY OF CATAWBA,
CITY OF HICKORY.

E, THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1928, realizing that our stay with our Alma Mater is fast drawing to a close, and knowing that we must soon depart from this life of tests, exams, trials, and hardships, and must go out into a new life to triumph or fail, and being of sound mind and memory, do make and declare this our last will and testament.

Junior Class History

THE CLASS OF '29 has now reached the third great flight of our four-flight stairway to the pinnacle of graduation.

We started the first flight as Freshmen or "Rats," eighty in number. Every one of us was entering a life new to us, one different from that of high school. We were not only new to college life, but were new to each other, as our members came not only from this Old North State, but from adjoining states as well. It wasn't long, however, until we began to feel at home on the college campus. Our only fear was from the Sophomores, and when they entertained us at a "kid" party we decided that even they had a friendly feeling toward us.

At an early date we organized our class and were soon ready to participate in the activities of college life. Some of our members went out for athletics, others for the Glee Club, and still others in other activities.

During the year there were different social divisions, one being the Halloween party, at which we had the honor of giving the best stunt. In the spring we gave the Sophomores a party in return for the one they gave us.

After resting on the first landing for three months, we were glad to start the second flight of our stairway. We found that some of our members had not stopped to rest. They had been climbing on upward during the summer.

Several new members joined our class at the beginning of our Sophomore year, and others who had been climbing with us gave up the task to get married—or for other reasons.

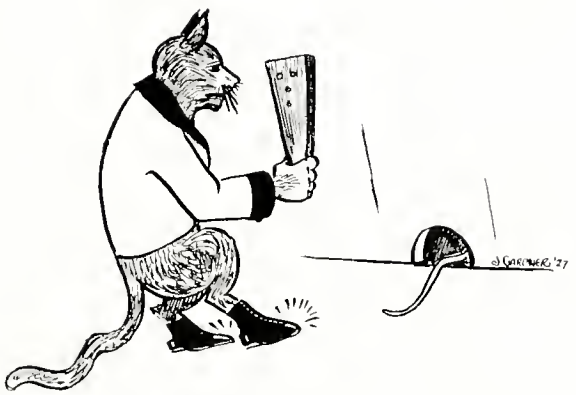

Early in the year the Sophomores won over the Freshmen in the flag fight, and the next night, to show that we had a friendly feeling toward them, we gave them a "Smile Party."

In the spring the class was saddened by the death of one of its best loved members, Ralph McArver. Ralph was a jolly boy, and always had a smile for everyone. He will long be remembered by his classmates and friends.

After another rest of three months the class began its third climb as Juniors. Several members of the class came in time to help welcome the Freshmen. We were glad to meet our "Little Sisters and Brothers." The Junior Class has been doing its best work this year. Everyone is co-operating with the class president, and all seem to know what responsibilities rest on the class. At the Halloween festival each Junior showed his class spirit by doing his part.

There are two things which we are looking forward to with pleasure; they are the completion of the buildings on the campus, and the completion of our fourth flight of stairs to the final landing—that of graduation.

Sophomore Class History

E were one hundred nine in number, green in color, and fresh in quality, when, as the Class of '30, we entered Lenoir Rhyne College. After a few days of wearing green caps and green ribbons, we settled down to hard work.

On September 23rd, the freshman boys were challenged to a flag fight by the sophomore boys. Here our boys fought with all their might, while our co-eds stood on the sidelines in spirit with our boys. As a result of hard fighting our boys won. But best of all, immediately following the fight we were entertained by the sophomores, where our eds and co-eds showed their approval of one another.

With "Vic" Overcash, we met in "Old Main," October 11, 1926, and organized our class, choosing Mark Paysour as president and Eugene Rumple as the most typical rat.

Although we were freshmen, we occupied an outstanding place in the college activities. In the interclass ball contests we furnished the champion basketball team by both boys and girls. We also furnished the champion baseball team. Besides these championships, we have furnished a number of students to the honor roll, societies, and all the Christian organizations of the college.

In the spring a class meeting was called for the purpose of electing new officers. Wayne Detweiler was given the honor of being our president.

In the fall of '27 we came back to Lenoir Rhyne with several additions to our fold. We were glad to be back and to see our campus being beautified by the construction of three new buildings.

The duty of looking after the freshmen naturally fell upon our shoulders. We soon placed green ribbons in their hair and green caps upon their heads. Soon after this initial introduction, we entertained the freshmen and business classes at a party in the dining hall of the boys' dormitory.

Besides the things accomplished by our own members, we feel that it is an honor to have been the first freshman class under President Schaeffer. Under his able guidance we hope to continue our preparation for a worthy future.

Freshman History

LIFE is somewhat like a book: we write a chapter every day. We are now writing the first chapter of our book, in the form of a history, at Lenoir Rhyne College. We have no idea how the book will end. Every individual in the Class of '31 is the hero or heroine of his or her romance, and it is left to us to make our book have a happy ending.

The Class of 1931, nearly all strangers to one another, first met on the evening of September 12, 1927, at a delightful dinner in Highland Hall. In the beginning we were made to feel at home by the president, faculty, and old students.

The pleasant social affairs too soon gave way to a taste of real work. We registered and were given a series of lectures which acquainted us with college life, its rules and regulations. Upon the arrival of the old students, especially the sophomores, came the initiation. "Rats" were marked by the red and green caps.

Several early social occasions marked the beginning of new and lasting friendships, and as the days passed which proclaimed the approach of a new year, we found ourselves deeply in the work that confronted us. Our class is well represented in all phases of college life. From our midst have gone out worthy athletes, members to the Student Cabinet and Hall Commissions, to the literary societies, to the Luther League, and to a large number of clubs.

As we look back over our brief history and the first chapter of our book, we are proud of our achievements. Some of our pages are marred with spots of failure, but the outstanding success of the class as a whole clearly shows that all dilemmas have been successfully deleted. Since the record already established is one of which we are proud, we look forward to the three remaining years that we will spend at Lenoir Rhyne and we are determined to work with new zeal in order to cause our Alma Mater to be glad to claim the Class of '31.

N. W., Class Historian.

Business Class History

Although our class is the smallest in number of its kind at Lenoir Rhyne, its work is marked with quality.

We, too, like the freshmen, were shy and green when we first appeared on the campus, but it was not long until the college atmosphere had taken hold of us and we realized that the "old" students were our big brothers and sisters.

Soon after the confusion of registration and matriculation we felt ourselves less shy and timid, and we orgainzed our class and elected the following officers:

RALPH YOUNT President
HELEN KRAMER Vice-President
KATHRYN HARRIS Secretary and Treasurer

Several social occasions afforded us much pleasure and enjoyment, and we were able to choose a host of friends. After these things, we started work in real earnest, and our accomplishment has not been small.

Although it is our privilege to be under the care of our Alma Mater for only one year, we feel that we have formed foundations of character that will withstand the wear and tear of years of labor and toil. It is with regretful hearts that we leave the fold of Lenoir Rhyne, but her principles and the lasting friendships formed there will always remain our treasured memories.

DRAMATICS

MISS PEARL SETZER, Director

The Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers

This marks the second year in the life and activity of the Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers as a local Little Theater. In so short a period of time this Little Theater has made remarkable progress, and has established a very creditable reputation as an amateur dramatic organization. Inspired by the enthusiasm and tireless efforts of the director, Miss Pearl Setzer, this young organization has won much local fame, and has already begun to make itself known throughout the state.

Early in the fall the Playmakers assisted in giving the pageant, The Way of Peace. The presentation was acclaimed beautiful and impressive. On November the 8th the Playmakers gave one of the major performances of the year, a three-act farce comedy, by Zelda Sears, entitled The Lucky Break. Every member of the large cast contributed vitally to the great success of the play. The next public performance was given on the 15th of the following month. It consisted of four one-act plays presented as follows: The Rector, Suppressed Desires, Fixin's, and The Wonder Hat. Public comment gave complete assurance of the delight and favor with which this performance was received. At the Christmas season Miss Setzer prepared and directed a group of freshmen in the splendid presentation of a very impressive pageant.

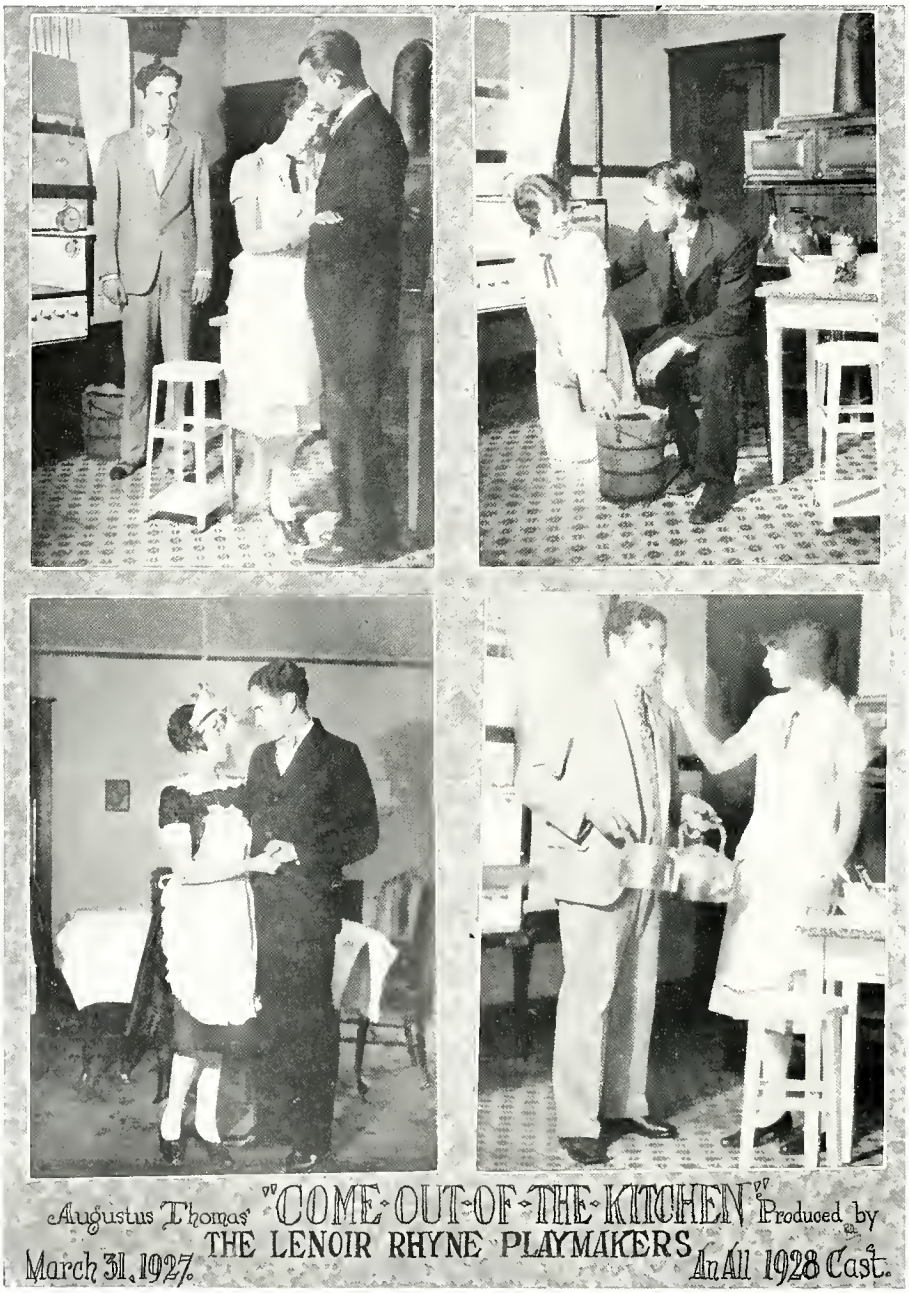

Under the supervision of Miss Setzer, herself a capable playwright, each Playmaker writes two original one-act plays during the year. These plays endeavor to represent the traditions, folklore, and various phases of the present-day life of our people. Most of this year's plays are remarkable for their fresh originality and high degree of quality. The first original play of the season, The Eternal Love Spirit, by Glenn Ekard, produced at the Junior Halloween festival, inaugurated a season of frenzied writing of drama.

Mention should be made of The Seventh Wave, a tragedy of the North Carolina coast, by Lucy Gaylord, and Not To Be Trusted, a tragedy of a stuttering convict, by Frank Poovey, two Playmakers of last year. These plays were adjudged first and second best, respectively, by the director of the Carolina Playmakers, at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

The best among this year's contributions to drama were submitted by authors reading to a committee. Politics Pays, a mountain comedy, Theodosia Watson; Self Salesmanship, a village comedy, by Glenn Ekard, and Aunt Martha, a village comedy, by Jessie Huss, were selected as the best and the most worthy of production.

Other writings of the year, together with their authors, are as follows: Personality Plus, a psychological comedy, Russell Eavey; Das All Right, Mid-Western comedy, Robert Defenderfer; Spendin' Pa's Money, a country comedy, Blanch Yoder; Tangled Lives, a society comedy, Olivia Abernethy; Just Like a Woman, a comedy, Edna Scruggs; Irene's Watch, a country comedy, Cletus Speagle; Their Policy, a comedy, Helen Hentz; Waitin', a tragedy, Irene Setzer; and Liquor and Law, a mountain tragedy, Christene Eisenhauer.

Forensic Activities

ITH the Class of 1928 there will pass from the College those who, in 1925-'26, helped to inaugurate a new forensic era. In that year Perry Crouch, Glenn Ekard, and Henry Owl, with Samuel Sox and Frank Carpenter, all members of a college class giving credit in debating, made a perfect record in winning all of their five contests, a dual debate with Miligan College and Guilford College, respectively, and a single debate with the University of Pittsburgh. That same year the class in public speaking furnished the winner of first place in the State Peace Oratorical Contest, in which, besides the local college, Davidson, Wake Forest, Guilford, Elon, Duke University, and the State University took part. For the first time in the history of the College a Lenoir Rhyne man, Roy B. Setzer, was state champion in oratory. Since no record of the achievements of 1925-'26 has appeared in the HACAWA, it is only a matter of plain justice that it appear now.

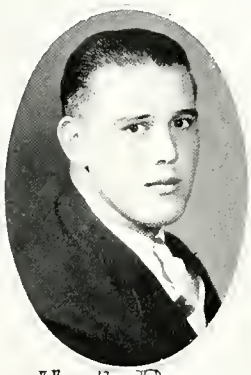

The season of 1926-'27 opened auspiciously, but then on January 6, 1927, fire destroyed the library housed in the Administration Building, and all files of periodicals went up in flames. The debaters, nevertheless, would have carried out the full program had not another college cancelled two dates, due to its inability to furnish debaters. In the home contest, March 18, Glenn Ekard and Hugh Beam bowed to an experienced team from High Point College, but at Guilford College Henry Owl and Perry Crouch won a decisive victory. At the invitation of Lenoir Rhyne College, the State Peace Contest, under the management of Dr. Albert Keiser, took place in the Hickory Auditorium, April 25. Hugh Beam placed third. In the State Constitutional Contest at Raleigh, April 29, Roy B. Setzer made a most excellent showing against the State College representative, who later won first place in the National Constitution Contest.

As credit in debating is limited to two hours, which makes the organization of a debating class difficult, that activity has again become mainly extra-curricular. For 1927-'28, six debates have been scheduled, among them a debate with Gettysburg College, and one with the University of Florida. The College will again be represented in the State Peace Contest, and also in the State Oratorical Contest of the North Carolina Inter-Collegiate Forensic Association, of which Dr. Albert Keiser is secretary-treasurer. The Peace Contest takes place at Elon College and the State Oratorical Contest at Davidson College.

Since 1925-'26, Dr. Albert Keiser, head of the English department, has had charge of forensic activities. He believes that they should be built up on a broad foundation and lead to the genuine development of those who take part. No shams are tolerated. Hard work and thorough preparation are considered the cornerstones of success; a spirit of fairness and honorable conduct is of incomparably greater importance than the mere winning of decisions.

ATHLETICS

Coach Gurley

Lenoir Rhyne is fortunate in having secured the services of Coach "Dick" Gurley. He has made a marvelous record as instructor of athletics during the past four years. Only those fortunate enough to come into contact with him are able to appreciate his good qualities. Coach Gurley knows athletics and players. He is blessed with a personality that brings him close to the hearts of his men, giving them a three-fold purpose for which to work: their school, their team, their coach. His skill is not confined to the gridiron, but extends through the entire realm of athletics. He is possessed with an ability to transform raw material into finished athletes in an incredibly short time. Furthermore, his natural power of instilling fighting spirit into his athletes has often proved to be a great asset to his teams. He has the complete confidence of every man on his teams, making him a leader whom the boys are proud to follow. Gurley is the man who made athletics at L. R. C. He has lived up to every expectation, and earned the confidence of all with whom he has dealt.

FOOTBALL

The Three Captains

Hugh F. Beam

Football

Beam was elected to pilot the '27 eleven Thanksgiving night, 1926, in Charlotte. It was on this day that he and his team mates showed the football fans of North Carolina what a real team looked like in action, when they defeated Roanoke, 3 to 0. Truly Beam played a great part in this game. Beam proved to be well worthy of his title as captain during the '27 season. To him we owe and give a large part of the praise and credit for the fighting spirit his team manifested throughout the past season.

Luther Hodge

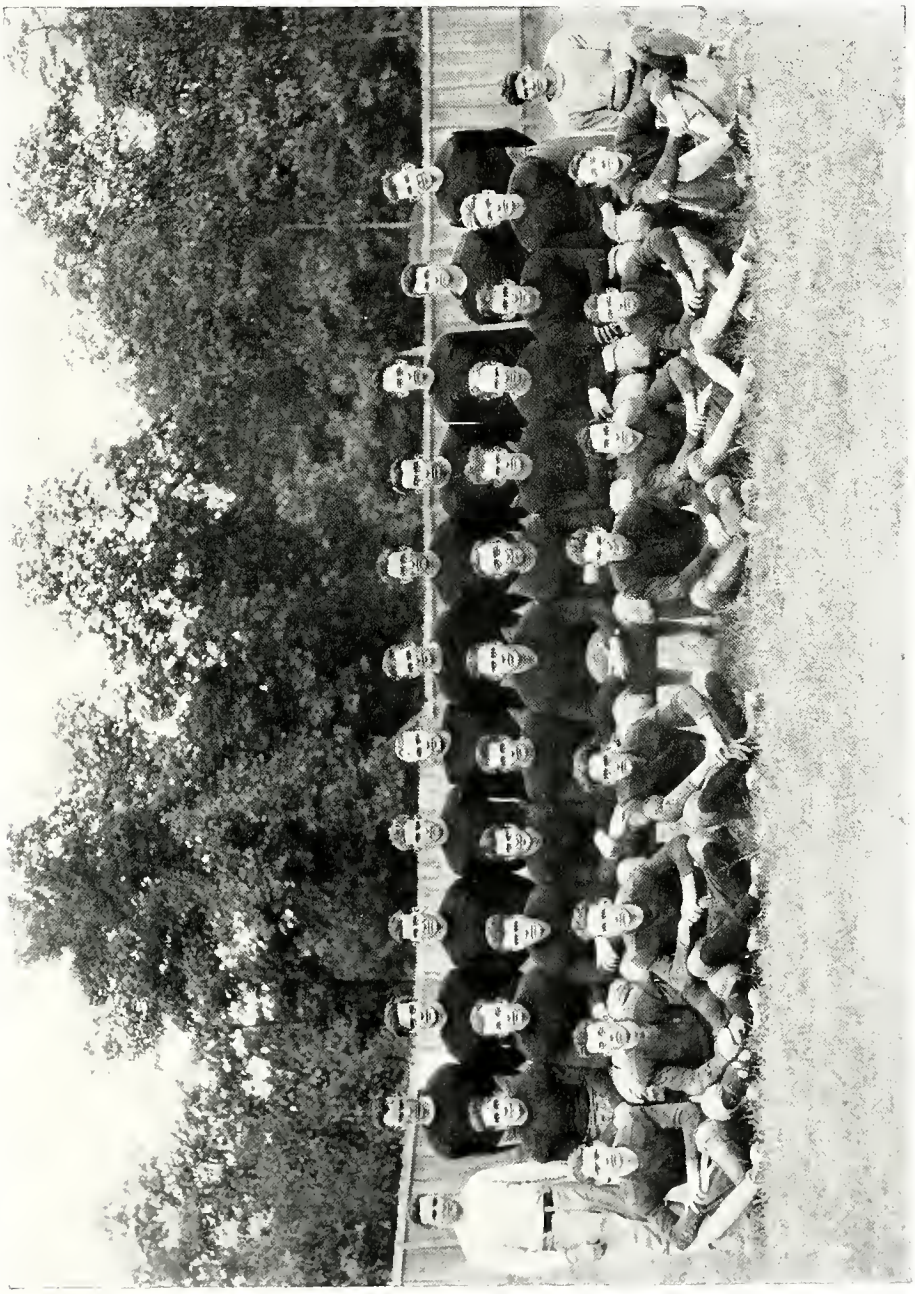

Basketball

"Dad" Hodge, '27 basketball pilot, became a regular player with the Bears soon after he entered college. The ability of "Dad" to work the leather into scoring position and to break back to his defensive position at guard is a big factor in his customary sterling play. "Dad" also displays offensive ability and can ring the basket with regularity. Hodge is admired by his team mates and the entire student body for his clean play.

Claude Frick

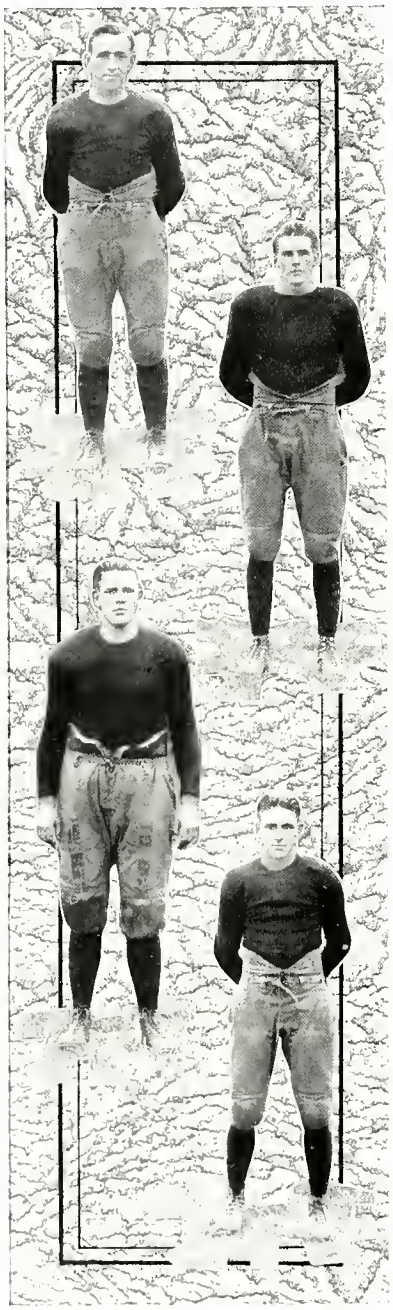

Baseball

Frick has played varsity baseball for Lenoir Rhyne two years. During this time he has made a name that he can be proud of in years to come. The team of '27 showed that they had utmost confidence in him and elected him as captain of the '28 nine. With his past record we are sure he will make a capable captain this year.

Paul McRee
Guard

Low charging and hard hitting, that's P. C. He was a true blue and a hard worker. He put his best into football just as he did in everything else. For the past two years "Mac" has been on the varsity. Guards like "Mac" are almost as scarce as hens' teeth. He was one of the mainstays in the Bears' line, and will be sorely missed in coming campaigns. Luck to you, "Mac."

Max Steelman
Guard

In every hard, tough game fought this year, it is a significant fact that "Steel" went the full distance. Like many others whose work is done beneath the surface, he paved the way for numerous substantial gains and blocked many powerful attacks. He was a regular; he was a main cog, and he came through wonderfully. He has another year with the team, and will serve as captain this coming fall.

Hugh Beam (Captain)
Tackle

The captain of the hardest fighting team ever put on the field for L. R. C. is the distinction which hard work gave Captain Beam. Beam could always be identified because of his size; his strength spoke for itself when he was at tackle, opening holes in the opposing line large enough through which to drive a wagon, and he was always a terror on the defense. He leaves us this year, and with him goes the respect and gratitude of his Alma Mater.

Kenneth Rhyne
Guard

"Ken," as he is generally called by his many friends, is one of those boys that held down the old guard position this year. "Ken" was a man always to be depended upon, never yielded, and always fought until the end. It was indeed an opponent to be respected that could succeed in blocking his progress. "Ken" is not only an athlete of merit, but he was chosen the best all-round boy among the student body. Perhaps his athletic ability was a stepping stone to this additional honor.

Football

Cloyde Hager

Quarterback

Our little quarterback was the lightest man on the team, but his knowledge of football and his ability in making the team run smoothly made up for his lack of weight. "Heg" is infinitely more than a player; he is essentially a director, and a director, at that, whose acting is par excellence. He has proven to be an outstanding triple threat man this year; the opposition never knew what to expect when "Heg" received the ball from the center. This little quarterback also deserves special mention for his defensive work.

Henry Owl

Halfback

The only difficulty in watching "Chief" play consists in the hardness of following his fast-stepping shoes. The football fans have seen the hopes of many teams wrecked by the side-stepping and flashy running of this fleet-footed Indian. "Chief" was also a consistent punter. He has played his last year, and truly, he leaves a place that will be hard to fill.

Walter Sigmon

Halfback

"Chuffy," the plunging little halfback, has also had on the Red and Black for the last time. The way "Chuffy" hit that line was a revelation. He hit it low and he hit it hard. He was a good ground gainer practically all the time, and when a couple of yards were needed, "Sig" was the boy who usually came through with the goods. Coach Gurley will have no easy time to fill this little man's shoes next fall.

Howard Holshouer

Halfback

"Hosy," another new man on the team, made a wonderful showing at halfback. "Hosy" was a heady football player, and was mighty good at picking holes, to say nothing of being a hard man to tackle in an open field. He has one of the most deceptive styles of running that is seen. He'll bear watching next season if he keeps up the pace he set in the King game at Asheville.

Football

Floyd Kiser

End

"Jack" is one of the three letter men at L. R. C. This year proved his power as an end, and the joyful part about it to the students of Lenoir Rhyne is that he has two remaining years to wear the Red and Black. To say he played well would not be enough; to say he fought hard is not enough; he deserves more and he gets it. The stands went wild many a time at seeing "Jack" grab a pass from the air and scamper away. "Jack" also deserves special mention for having played every minute of the ten games this year.

Wayne Detweiler

Center

The thing said most about "Red" is the best that can be said about him: he filled Vic Overcash's shoes capably. This was "Red's" year; even though he had no competition for his place at center, he never let up. He worked hard during the entire season, and he was rewarded for his splendid work by getting to play full time this past fall.

Banks Ritchie

Tackle

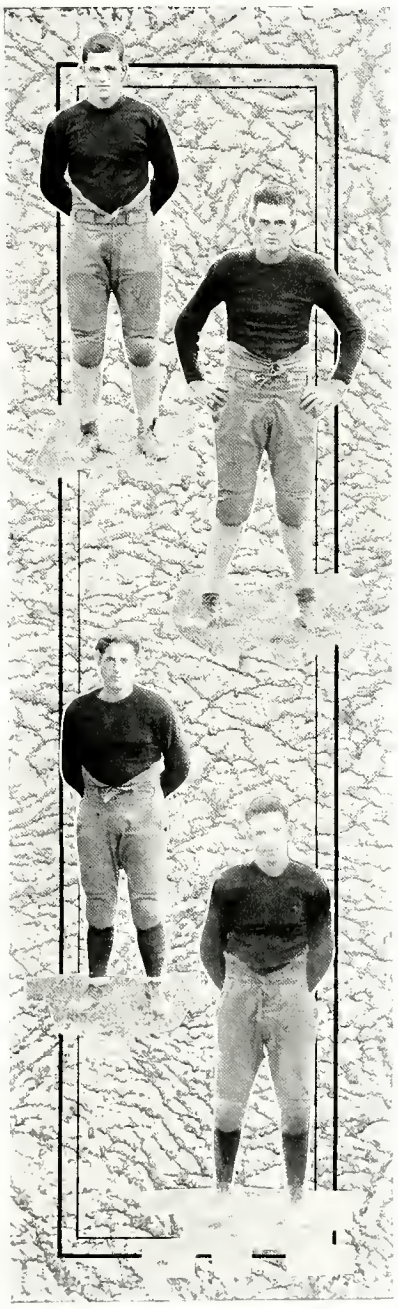

Ritchie came into the limelight this year as a football tackle. He stepped in and filled the hole left by Broadie Hood, thus solving a great problem for Coach Gurley and the Bear squad. No high spots can be picked out in Ritchie's year that are not equalled by nearly every other minute of his playing. A man who played his tackle to perfection and who will continue to shine in L. R. C.'s line for two years.

Loyd Winecoff

End

"Red" Wynecoff, playing his first year on the varsity, developed into a mighty good end during the '27 season. He was reasonably fast, strong for a small man, and gifted in taking down passes. When he went down on a punt with Jack it was a very rare occurrence for the receiver to run it back more than a couple of yards at the most. In spite of the fact that it was his first year of varsity football, "Red" very successfully smeared most of the plays around his flank.

Football

Lester Jones

Fullback

"Spig" is another one of those hard-hitting fullbacks. He came to the squad last fall as a freshman, and made a record for himself that very few freshmen are capable of making. "Spig" is one of the hardest tacklers to ever back up a Lenoir Rhyne line. He displays a wonderful spirit, determination, and Mountain Bear tenacity in every play. Lenoir Rhyne expects great work from "Spig" in the future.

Eugene Rumple

Tackle

Here is a man who appeared to care very little for football at the beginning of the season, but before the season was over the other members of the squad talked "Rump" into liking the game, and showed him just how badly he was really needed. That was the thing that made life hard for Ritchie in the last games of the season. "Rump" showed what he was made of by taking a regular's place on the team in those last games.

Russel Eavey

Guard

Russel is another one to be lost by graduation this year. "Russ" played as a guard, and guards do more work and get less credit for it than any other member of a football team. Eavey was one of those. He was not a spectacular player, but he was dependable. Few plays were run over him by the opposition, and quite often he was instrumental in smearing plays behind the enemy's line. He was also a valuable man to back up the line when called upon.

Carl Mauney

Fullback

The will is there, the ability is there, the man is there: experience only is lacking, and Lenoir Rhyne can furnish that in great measure next year. "Monk" is outstanding for his faithfulness, and one fact is most evident about "Monk"—he is always ready to go with no great priming. He has two more years with the squad, and will be seen in many another action before the tale is told.

The Three Managers

Nickolas Lynn

Baseball

"Nick" was the very efficient manager of the '27 baseball machine. His task of arranging the schedule was no easy one, but he did a difficult job, and deserved the letter awarded him for this splendid service.

Claude H. Frick

Football

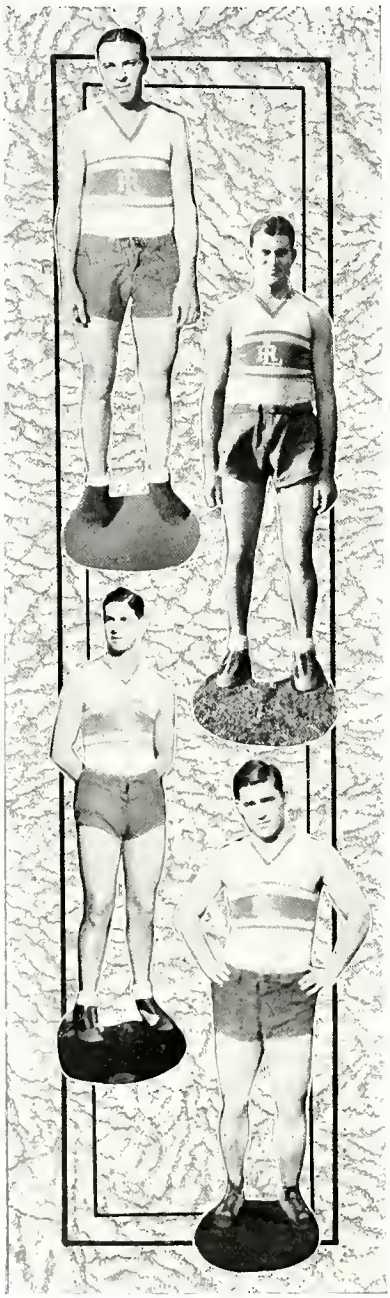

If All-American managers were selected, we are of the opinion that Claude would be in the mythical line. He is admired by the team and the entire student body—Yes, and also by Meb Efird. The manager has a great deal to do with the success of the team, and Claude has certainly done his share and well deserves the "L" he received for his splendid work as manager.

Earl Huffman

Basketball

Manager Huffman was an important part of the basketball team. Earl represented a vital cog that was unable to accompany the machine on the floor, but nevertheless was necessary to keep it running. Earl eliminated friction and was in harmony with the team, coach, and student body.

Basketball

Luther Hodge (Captain)
Guard

Captain Hodge is another of the old men to return from last year's team. "Dad" Hodge directed the team's offense and defense from his position at running guard, and the team showed rapid and steady improvement under his leadership. This is "Dad's" third and last year on the varsity, and his leaving is regretted.

Floyd Kiser
Forward

"Jack" is one of the three regulars returning from last year's squad. He has been the outstanding star in basketball this year for L. R. C. "Jack" started the season off with a flash, being high scoreman in all the games. He displayed a nice eye for the basket and a good floor game. His clever faking fooled his opponents. "Jack" has yet two more years to play, and is sure to go strong.

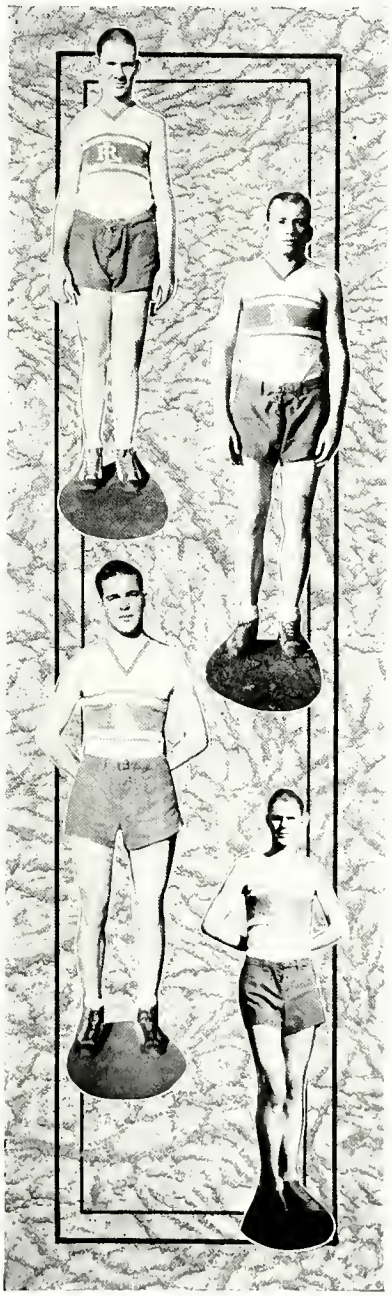

Marcus Pasour
Center

Although this is Mark's first try at basketball at the Capstone, he made good from the jump. Playing a hard position, he filled it most acceptably. His work under the basket was always noticeable, and he converted many misses into points. Mark is another sophomore with two more years to play, from whom great things are expected.

Lester Jones
Guard

Here is a dark horse who stepped right in and made himself a regular on the hardwood outfit this year. "Spig" came to the squad as a freshman, and by his steady hard work showed coach and the team that he was the man to take Captain Overcash's place at stayback guard. We want to congratulate "Spig" for his success in football and basketball, and wish him well in baseball. Why not be a three-letter man, "Spig"?

Basketball

Loyd Winecoff

Forward

"Red" is a graduate of the scrubs, and has proved to be one of the team's best men. "Red" is fairly fast and gets around over the court in a pleasing manner. "Red" is scheduled to return next year, and with his added experience he should become a star of the first magnitude.

Banks Ritchie

Guard

"Ritchie" is a sophomore, and playing his first year on the varsity. He always played good ball while in the game, and should prove to be an excellent man in years to come. Ritchie's defensive work was outstanding, and we expect him to be one of the shining stars of the '29 quintet.

Cloyd Hager

Forward

"Heg" has been one of L. R. C.'s strong replacement men; although playing in only a few games, he played his position well. His accuracy at shooting enabled him to play a very effective game under the basket. He is a sophomore, and has two years of basketball left to play.

Ben Lentz

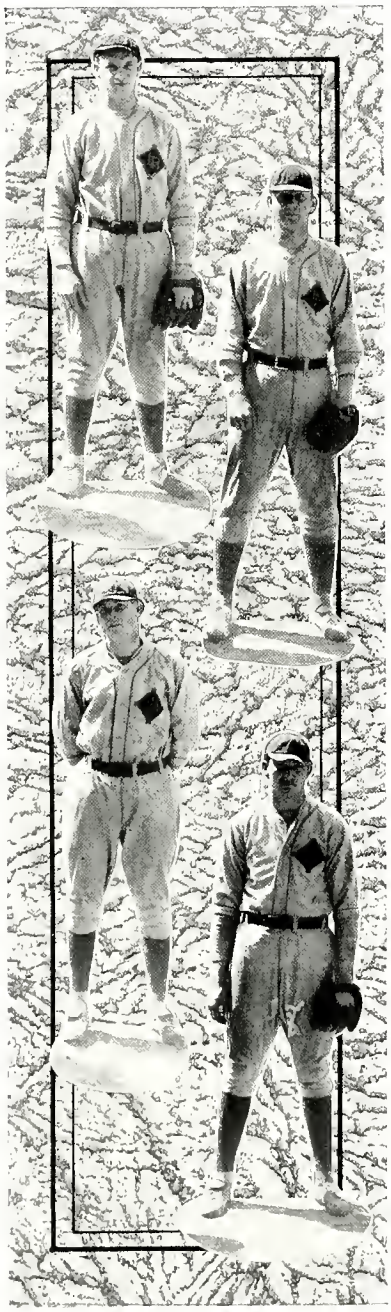

Center

Ben is another graduate of last year's scrub team who has not reached the ranks of a regular. He has speed, though, and plays no bad floor game. He has two more years left to his credit, and should be able to strike his stride and show some real flashy playing before next season has become history.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL SQUAD

BASEBALL
SWISH!
RoDe

Baseball

Roy Whisenhunt

Outfield

"Whis," as captain of one of the most successful teams L. R. C. has ever produced, can feel a just pride in his achievement. He has filled Lenoir Rhyne's field with capability and sureness. "Whis" has played his last game for his Alma Mater, thus leaving a hard place for some one to fill.

Marvin Lentz

First Base

Lentz was on the receiving end of throws from Frick, Hager, and Hodge, and he proved to be a capable man for the first sack. He was picked as being the most valuable man to the team of '27. The best that can be said of any man can be said of him: "He was a hard worker."

Hazel Clemmer

Catcher

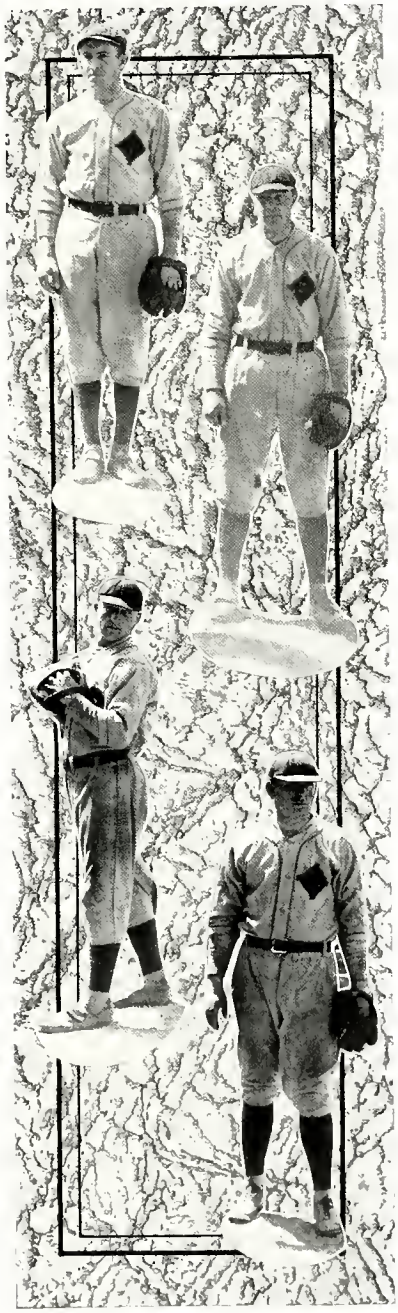

Behind the bat "Clem" was always found to be wide awake; runners who tried to steal on him might as well call it suicide—it couldn't be done. He wielded a wicked willow, too—he could always be depended on to come through in a pinch. He will be missed this spring when Coach calls out his baseball squad.

Clifton Hood

Catcher

"Broadie" is another of those hard working men at all times. Hood has distinguished himself in athletics at Lenoir Rhyne. He is one of the few three-letter men the institution put out in '27. He has deserved his honors if ever a man did. He leaves his Alma Mater in debt to him.

Baseball

Claude L. Hewitt

Pitcher

Setting the big boys down is Hewitt's dish. No matter who nor when, they usually take a cut at the elusive pill when he turns it loose. Plenty of speed and break, a good baseball head, a heavy hitter and neat base runner: such is the formula for Claude. He will be a big factor on the baseball team this year.

Luther Hodge

Second Base

Hodge and Frick always show real co-operation around the keystone sack. "Dad" Hodge has been a main cog in L. R. C.'s baseball team for the past two years; he is a player of wide experience who knows the game from beginning to end. "Dad" is also expected to show the baseball fans something this spring.

Claude H. Frick

Shortstop

Here is a little man upon whom one could depend. He knows exactly what to do in every pinch and does it—a flashy fielder who always gives the fans a real treat. Frick also proved to be a valuable man in the box. When Coach Gurley was really in need of a pitcher, Frick stepped in and came through with the goods. He will be seen on short this coming season.

Roy Abernathey

Pitcher

An indispensable part of the pitching staff, he knows his stuff. Roy worked hard three years in the box. It was by this hard work that he made his letter this past season. He will be sorely missed this spring when Coach issues the call for baseball players.

Baseball

Hugh Coulter

Outfielder

The proverbial tar bucket—that's "Chuffy!" In the field he just doesn't miss 'em, and as a slugger he rocks the outer walls with the old baseball. Can any more be said about a baseball player? If it can, say it. "Chuffy" deserves it.

Floyd Kiser

Third Base

"Jack" and Hager had it out for the place at third. They both put up a real fight, so they were rewarded for their work before the season ended. "Jack" was shifted to short when Frick was promoted to the pitching staff. Here "Jack" proved to be the right man. He has three more years to play baseball and he is sure to strut his stuff.

Cloyd Hager

Third Base

Hager, the little hard fighting quarterback on the football team, came to the baseball field with the same fighting spirit as he showed on the football field. He had strong competition for his place at third, but by his hard work finally managed to become a regular at the third sack. He also has three seasons left to strut on the baseball field.

Rochell Brown

Pitcher

"Roch" had two famous hobbies: making 'em hit where he wanted 'em, or setting them down by the strike-out route. This was his first year, with his freshman record behind him. He is sure to show the fans some real stuff when he steps in the box this coming season.

Cheer Leaders

Good cheer leaders are hard to find, and L. R. C. was fortunate in having the persons pictured above: Glenn Barger and his two assistants, Joyce Rudisill and Melbourne Farris. These three young people are responsible for the great pep and support that the student body has given our teams in every department of athletics, and we feel that many of our victories are due to the tireless efforts and support given by the cheer leaders. When it was hardest to yell, when it looked as though our team would lose the ball, the trio of cheer leaders would bring forth such yells from the student body that would put extra energy into the team and cause them to be so many fighting demons. The entire student body is grateful for the work accomplished by the cheer leaders.

Diary

SEPTEMBER

12—Monday. Rats arrive on campus. Enjoy a dinner featured at Highland Hall by faculty. Some made quite a hit with opposite sex.
13—Tuesday. Freshmen have chapel. Registration begins. Few old students arrive.
14—Wednesday. Registration of old students. Oh, those conflicts. Everything to do over again—"but I wanna take Ancient Languages!" Homesickness prevails in Oakview.
15—Thursday. First day of work. Everyone attended chapel. President and faculty welcome student body. First student body meeting.
16—Friday. Green ribbons and "rat caps" everywhere. Opening reception. Freshmen attempt to make a hit.
17—Saturday. Seniors use privileges. Philalethians entertain new girls.
18—Sunday. Students attend Sunday school and church. College Luther League begins with new vim.
19—Monday. Laying of cornerstone of Mauney dormitory. First pep meeting. Rain—what a relief from dust!
21—Wednesday. "Hacawa" pictures being made. See the little birdie!
22—Thursday. Students see football team off on first trip. My, what pep!
23—Friday. Oakview girls receive callers.
24—Saturday. Lost first football game to Georgetown. Oh, well, we didn't mind.
28—Wednesday. Laying of cornerstone of D. E. Rhyne administration building. All out for the affair.
29—Thursday. Team goes to Newberry. Score, 0-0.
30—Friday. Our stenographers seem to be running a race! Where's our additional faculty member?

OCTOBER

1—Saturday. Boys return in fine spirits.
3—Monday. Our house president calls on Bill and Lorene Mauney.
5—Wednesday. Miss Setzer has theater party for senior girls.
6—Thursday. Football squad play William and Mary. Mud and rain. Boys surely did work.
12—Wednesday. "Hacawa" subscription contest going on. Which class will win?
15—Saturday. Home-coming day. Win football game. Banquet.
16—Sunday. Luther League presents pageant, "The Way of Peace."
19—Wednesday. Football boys have dates. Who burned out the fuse?
21—Friday. Team goes to Asheville.
22—Saturday. Jolly crowd rides special bus to Asheville. Fine game. We won, 20-2.
24—Monday. Joyce and Fay entertain senior girls. My, what gossip!
26—Wednesday. Oakview girls step out—"Love Thrill." Ten cents.
27—Thursday. Seniors make a decision on class ring. Rings standardized.
28—Friday. Team goes to Greensboro to meet High Point in hard game. How cruel are the Panthers! We lose, 13-0.
31—Monday. Big masquerade by the juniors given at the gym. Everyone has a fine time.

NOVEMBER

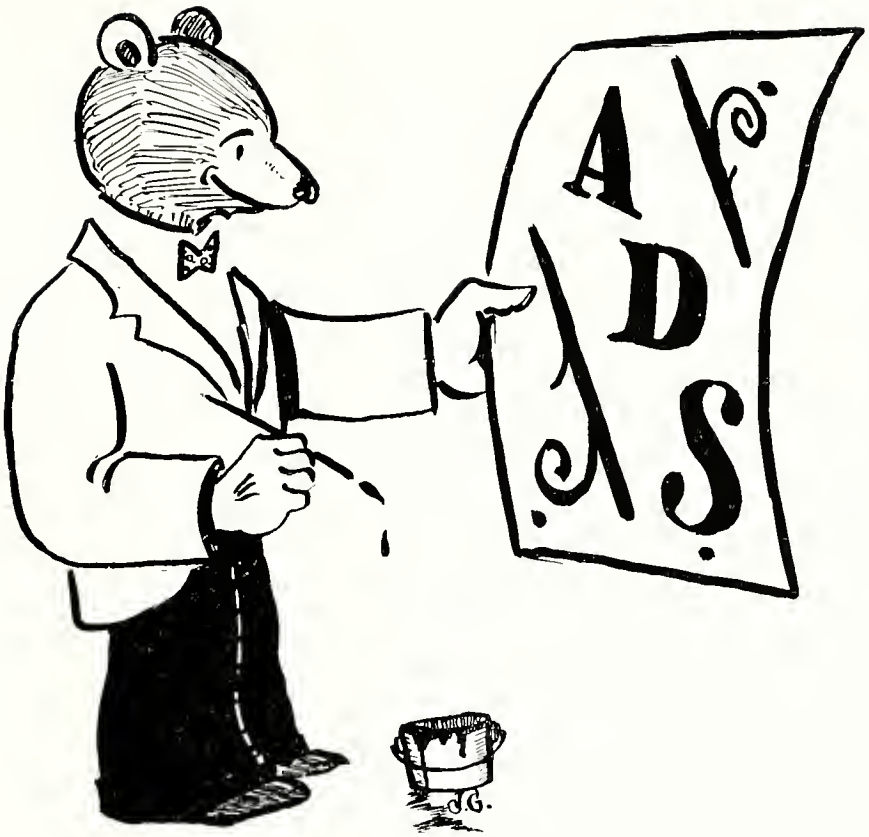

1—Tuesday. Seniors win extra page in "Hacawa."
2—Wednesday. Professor Hackemann makes a talk to Crusaders.
4—Friday. Boys come to Oakview for an hour and a half date.
5—Saturday. Great! Great! Our new buildings will soon be complete.
7—Monday. Quarterly exams begin. Cram! Cram!
8—Tuesday. The Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers present the "Lucky Break."
12—Saturday. Freshmen think they are doing fine to pass two courses out of seven.
13—Sunday. Unlucky "Thirteen." Two girls terribly blue.
14—Monday. Joe, Mountain Bear mascot, arrives on the campus.
15—Tuesday. The first Lyceum program is given. "Katie Kline" sports.
16—Wednesday. Joe Bear pays a visit to Oakview.
17—Thursday. Interesting talks on "Student Government" given by High Point representatives.
19—Saturday. Quakers meet defeat at hands of Bears, 19-0.
22—Tuesday. Girls begin class basketball games. Sophomores win over freshmen. "Deedie" has her hair cut—it won't be long now.
24—Thursday. Thanksgiving. Luther Leagues enjoy sunrise breakfast. Elon wins big Turkey Day game, 7-6. First time L. R. C. has been defeated on the new athletic field.
28—Monday. Senior girls win over junior girls, 7-8.
29—Tuesday. Musical recital at Oakview by candle light.
30—Wednesday. Freshmen defeat juniors in basketball.

DECEMBER

1—Thursday. Sophomores defeat seniors. Hard fight.
2—Friday. Rain! Rain! Rain everywhere!
3—Saturday. More rain.
4—Sunday. First snow.
5—Monday. What's the matter with "Deedie"—the good shepherd is missing?
6—Tuesday. Freshmen counting the days until Christmas.
7—Wednesday. We begin singing Christmas carols in chapel.
8—Thursday. Pictures for senior superlatives are taken.
9—Friday. "Kat" comes to the conclusion that her love for "Monk" is Real.
12—Monday. Who cut up the rug?
13—Tuesday. Wear a cherry tree on your finger. Ha! Ha!
15—Thursday. Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers present four one-act plays.
16—Friday. Lenoir Rhyne cagers defeat Taylorsville.
18—Sunday. Senior Leaguers present Christmas play.
19—Monday. Lenoir Rhyne varsity defeats Lenoir "Y."
20—Tuesday. Everybody says good-bye for two weeks.

JANUARY

4—Wednesday. Everybody back.
5—Friday. All tired and homesick. Holidays must have been too tame!
7—Saturday. Nothing special happens.
10—Tuesday. Dr. Snyder and his Sociology Class made a visit to Morganton.
11—Wednesday. L. R. C. loses to High Point by small margin, 26-29.
12—Thursday. Wondering poet visits College.
13—Friday. "Unlucky."
14—Saturday. Why does it seem like springtime?
16—Monday. Cramming for exams.
17-24—Semester exams begin and end. They were, as usual, entertaining.
25—Wednesday. Registration.
26—Thursday. Precaution taken against smallpox.
27—Friday. Girls lose to Boone by one point.
28—Saturday. We beat Mars Hill.
30—Monday. Professor Marion leaves for Columbia University.
31 Tuesday. Bye, bye, bye! "Hacawa" goes to press.

Promises and Prospects Turn into Realities

AT

LENOIR RHYNE COLLEGE

The class of 1928 has had the unusual experience of beholding three new buildings started, completed, equipped during their last year. These buildings represent an investment of $300,000.00 and provide adequately for the service they are to render for many years to come.

But the loyalty and devotion of the students of Lenoir Rhyne make Lenoir Rhyne in larger measure than buildings, mean more than buildings. Every graduate should be a great asset, going about with happy memories, upholding the efforts of Alma Mater with pride, striving to bring honor through word and deed.

Alma Mater wishes the class of 1928 every true success and happiness.

Let those who have left, those who leave, and those who stay, work together that Every Year at Lenoir Rhyne will be a Greater Year.

PROGRESS

Steady, financial progress is the result of a systematic plan of putting aside a definite portion of your income.

It means that you are further ahead this year than you were last, and that each year will be another step toward the goal of financial independence.

One of the surest ways to start building a fortune is to open a bank account for regular deposit.
